DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-22 are pending.
2. In the response filed September 27, 2004, Applicants have elected the compound of Example 187 at pages 166 as the preferred species. Claims 1-17 are readable on the preferred species as drawn to the examined subject matter. The election is without traverse.
3. Claims 18-22 are withdrawn from consideration.
4. Rejoinder of the method claims will be addressed upon allowance of claimed subject matter.
5. Applicants are reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a diligently filed petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(h).
6. Claims 1-17 are Markush claims which are generic to the elected invention. These Markush claims lack unity of invention. Accordingly, the Markush type claim will be examined fully with respect to the elected species and further to the extent necessary to determine patentability. See MPEP 803.02.
7. Claims 1-17 are objected on the grounds that the claims are drawn to an improper Markush group. In re Harnish, 206 USPQ 300, states that a unity of invention exists where compounds included within a Markush group(1) share a common utility and (2) share a substantial structural feature disclosed as being essential to that utility. In the instant case, the claimed subject matter does not share a substantial structural feature disclosed as being essential to that utility.

The requirement for a proper Markush claim is that it includes only substances that in their physical, chemical and physiological characteristics are functionally equivalent. The members of the instant Markush groups possess widely different, physical and chemical properties. The compounds are not considered functionally equivalent and are so diverse that they demonstrate dissimilar and unrelated properties. The mere fact that there is structural similarity in pharmaceutical agents is not in itself reason to render all the embodiments functionally equivalent.

The improper Markush groups are X and Z.

8. The examined subject matter is as follows:

A compound of formula II where G represents a carbocyclic ring, Ar represents a carbocyclic ring; X represents a 5 or 6-membered rings containing 1 or 2 nitrogen atoms; the other radical not defined herein are as defined in claim 1. The examined subject matter is allowed.

9. The radicals within the definition of X and Z are independent and patentable distinct. If a search is extended to other distinct species beyond that of the elected species, the following rejection is applicable.

10. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

Art Unit: 1625

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

11. Claims 1-4, 8, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Bayer Corporation (Reference AF3, cited by applicants).

The instantly claimed compounds are disclosed. At page 75, see compounds 64-68, respectively.

12. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

13. Claims 1-17 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-17 of U.S. Patent No. 6,660,732. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the radical Z is optionally substituted. The radical represented can simply be phenyl.

Response to Applicants' Remarks about the Obviousness-Type Double Patenting Rejection

Applicants state that it is alleged that the 6,660,732 Z radical is a subgenus of the instant Z. Applicants respectfully disagree. The instant application is a divisional case of US 6,660,732 application serial number 09/962,709. The Office Action of 09/962,709 attached herewith as exhibit W shows on page 2, point 3 that limitation to where Z is a ring was required. Therefore the patent's claim language, such as that in claim 1 reads: phenyleach being optionally substituted with one to three ...

It is the examiner's position that:

- In the application and patent, the radical Z represents phenyl.
- The radical Z is optionally substituted.
- As such, Z can present phenyl.

14. Applicant's arguments filed September 27, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
